Make Use of Your Time

By Sandy Bostwick close--yes, you heard me right-I do mean drawing to a close! It's hard to believe but there are only nine more actual days of school before final examinations and regents. About this time of year students tend to get uneasy and let school work slide. But when you actually get right down to , this case of spring fever may mean a failing grade in our final examinations. Look at it this way. If you spend these last days working double play. The game went very hard, I mean really trying. working our very best, we could bring our grades up a considerable number of points and pass our Then take a look at the other side. If we spend these last nine days letting school work go and relaxing thinking we have done enough, we may bring our grades with an infield hit good for two Wayne Atwell plans to work and our grade or subject. days are very important ones, and make use of the short time left and try our very best. Just because warm weather is approaching and summer just around the corner is no sign for us to stop studying. Let's make use our time: Work hard and raise our grades while we have the
