• The chart shows how the Erie has improved its freight train performance 140 per cent by moving more tons of freight faster. This continuous improvement reached a new high in 1951.

Year after year, the Erie has-been in the top group of the country's railroads in operating efficiency.

Credit this fine record to two important factors: (1) Heavy investment in new equipment, especially diesel locomotives. (2) The technical know-how and loyalty of Erie's 22,000 men and women whose constant aim is to keep doing a better job for you.

This, again, is another example of Erie's progressive · railroading—improving the job of providing your. community and our country's defense needs with safe, dependable transportation every day of the year!
