Robert Stowell, chairman of the Farm Dairy Committee, has announced that the annual Dairy Tour will be held Wednesday. July 30. The tour will visit six stops in total and will wind up about 4 p.m.

Mr. Stowell said that a great deal of work has been done by the Extension Agents in cooperation with Cornell University and other agencies to show some of the lat-est developments in corn and oat varieties; irregation; farm business analysis; weed-control and pole type construction, as well as a number of other interesting items. This tour, he said, is for the entire family.

The chairman of the Dairy Committee issued a special invita-tion to businessmen of the county and anyone else interested to attend. "We are inviting everyone this year, he said, because we feel that it is important that consumers know some of the problems of the producer and how we as pro-
