and secure and that is makes no difference whether they vote not? Perhaps it would be a wise suggestion for us Americans to sit down and take inventory ourselves and the rest of the world and then ascertain whether our vote is important or not. In this inventory I would suggest that each of us ask ourselves a few of the following questions:

(1) Are the people of Germany happy today that they were lulled into a position where a dictator could take over and lead them to

(2) Are the people of Russia and her sattelite nations happy today that they too allowed themselves to be brought under the hell of a dictator and thereby being stripped of practically all of their human rights?

(3) Are we the American people satisfied today with all of our governmental policies and the men that are forming them? If we are complaining about them and expressing dissatisfaction, do we stop and think whether or not we voted in the last election and rerefore have the right to express this dissatisfaction?

(4) Do the mothers and fathers f today in America realize that their negligence at the polls today will influence the lives of their wood and Joseph L. Padden of children and their childrens' child-

These are just a few of the questions that the American citeach election. Then just as he enters the voting booth he should thank God that he is living in a to vote and that he is about to cast his ballot in an election that Miss Mildred, Whitcomb and has more than just one name to

> "WHY WE SHOULD VOTE" Second Prize Essav by

Charity Ann Howland As the 1952 Presidental Election is only twenty nine days away already people can be heard to say "Why Should I Vote" t won't count.

Back through history we find so many reasons to answer that question. Vital issues were sometimes decided by a single ballot. The same thing could happen in this election if history has a habit

When Abner Hastings, a Rhode Island farmer, arrived at the poll too late little did he know that his vote which wasn't cast indirectly declared war upon England in 1812.

A shift of one vote would have denied Texas from entering the Union over 100 year ago as the one vote in the U.S. Senate did deny Alaska the right of state-

True to the American way how we vote and why we vote is our own affair but the main object is that we should vote. Most important to all that vote is that they should be completely familiar with the candidates; Eisenhower or Stevenson; what is party platform on which they are running, the party they represent
