Rise In Farm Milk Price Is Forecast

Farm prices for milk delivered to poor handlers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed during the first half of this year will average 17 cents per hundredweight higher than in the same period last year, it has been forecast.

Dr. A. J. Pollard, market administrator, predicted that dairy farmers will receive an average price of $4.16 per hundredweight in the January-June period. The average price for the same in 1965 was $3.99.

Dr. Pol.ard said. This would be 18 cents higher than last year.

Fluid prices are also expected to be higher in each of the six months. The biggest increase is estimated at 20 cents in February,
May and June. January will see the smallest increase — 15 cents

Farm prices are those received by dairy farmers. Fluid prices are paid into the pool by handlers who pay for all milk according to its classification.

Mi.k production is expected to be 1.6 percent under 1965 in the forecast period. Receipts should be lower in each of the six months and total 6,354 million pounds for the period.

Dr. Pollard explained he was issuing the forecast at the request of members of the dairy industry and other interested nersons. He added that his estimates were subject to revisions since all the factors used in its preparation are not definitely known at this time.

Department Of Motor Vehicles Ahead Of Schedule

The Department of Motor Vehicles is far ahead of schedule in the annual task of renewing registrations, despite the new system being set up this year, Commiss-ioner William S. Hults says.

ioner William S. Hults says.

In a general report on the new program, the Commissioner sais that for the week ended December 31, about 47 per cent of the State's vehicle owners already had completed their renewals. Normally by that date, only about 20 per cent would have done so.

"Back in November," said the Commissioner, "there were reports that the new system was falling apart at the seams because of errors on the new punch cards. Everybody was ready to guess how many punch cards were wrong, based upon nothing more that their own surmises."

"Our latest figures, through December 31", show that on a state-wide average, somewhere between 83 and 90 per cent of our vehicle owners have been able to use their punch cards. This is somewhat better than we had hoped for last summer when we were planning the program."

Mail business has been much avier than usual. He said he heavier than usual. He said he believed this is because people re-ceived application blanks in the mail. Since they did not have to visit Motor Vehicle offices to get application blanks, they simply sent in their checks and completed the transaction by mail.

"We have some small to medium-sized backlogs in mail business in some offices," he acknowledged. "We are giving these too priority and everyone who has sent in a correct application will get his plates in plenty of time for the January 31 deadline.

Telephone inquiries dropped off somewhat after an initial flurry when punc cards were mailed in November. However, telephone volumes have increased since January 1 in most offices and special help and line have been added to handle the volume.

"Up to now, not much has happened that we didn't anticipate in planing the new program. We have had our critics, but these remind me of people who visit your house when you are having your kitchen remodeled and conclude that your house, at the moment, is not as neat as it might otherwise be."

"They are quite-right," he said.

"They are quite right," he said. "They are quite right," he said.
"You don't make progress without some innovation — some tearing apart. But once the remodeling is complete, I think these critics will find a cup of coffee in our little our new system—quite kitchen — our new system—quite to their liking."
