Editorial

Last Monday during the Legior Speaking Contest in which three of our Juniors participated, I noticed something that really made me quite angry. I observed several students in this school that could use a good overhaul job on their manners.

For as many years as I can remember, Mr. Kessler has never failed to mention the fact that speaking in front of your own student body in a contest is indeed a very difficult task to perform. Before the speakers begin giving their speeches, the students are reminded by Mr. Kessler to give their utmost attention and consideration to the students. Yet, from the time that the first speaker began to the time that the last speaker finished, one could look around and see many students causing an unnecessary amount of noise and confusion. It is a natural thing to have some noise in the audience, but the noise coming from that particular audience was not natural.

To give a better idea of the confusion and noise that existed, one teacher found it necessary to get up twice to calm his students who seemed to have found something more interesting than the speakers. I do not want to be misunderstood. I do not blame this on the teacher for the majority of the class was behaving very nicely for being so young. There just seemed to be those few. Another teacher found that she must go and sit with a group of students who were given the privilege of sitting alone. Apparently they could not handle the responsibility and had to go back to being treated like children again. There was a great deal of coughing - the kind you do purposely.

Can you imagine how difficult it must have been to speak with all this going on? It is hard enough to speak in front of a group when there is no noise at all. One little movement of sound can upset beginning speakers. How confusing it must have been with all that sound and movement. I doubt that the ones who were causing all the trouble will even take the time to read this editorial. If only they could be placed in a position such as these girls were in last Monday perhaps they would change their attitudes.

It seems as if they could forget the "monkey business" for only thirty minutes. These thirty minutes were very important ones to the speakers. I also noticed that some very boldly yelled out many "Boos" at the end of each speech. How could they boo when they were booing about? That only shows how very rude people can be toward one another. I only hope that these people who found being rude so very very funny have an opportunity to stand in front of a very uncooperative audience one day and thus find out what it is like to speak in front of an audience much like themselves. No doubt they would do a little complaining.

These people are not fooling anyone but themselves and certainly they are not impressing anyone!

Senior Interview

On April 15, 1948, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke became the proud parents of a son whom they named William Robert Clarke. Bill has one sister.

Throughout his years at A.C.S. Bill has majored in business and Industrial Art. His spare time is spent in Chorus which he has been in for two years. He also had a part in both the Junior and Senior plays. He has been in 4-H for two years; wrestling and soccer. This year he has the position of Art Editor for the 1966 Yearbook.

Bill has many favorites. Some are: saying "Get after her"; color blue; food, pizza, hot, "Goldfinger" and Art is his favorite subject. His pet peeve is people who think they are perfect. Next year Bill plans to attend Alfred or go into the Navy.

Senior Interview

On November 20, 1947, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Davis. They named her Linda and in a few short years sent her off to A.C.S., where she made a name for herself in such activities as FHA, Junior Band, Chorus, the Hi Herald, G.A.A., Library Council and the Girl's Basketball and Volleyball teams.

This business major was soon known by her saying, "C'mon!" Her favorites include: color, turquoise; book, "The Good Earth"; food, fish; movie, "State Fair"; and subject, bookkeeping.

Next year Linda plans to attend R.H.I. in Rochester. Best of luck, Linda.

To you Bill, A.C.S., wishes all the best in the future.

Purple And White

Andover won their fifth game of the season last Thursday night, downing a stubborn Alfred-Almond team. Andover came from behind in the third quarter on Bob Joyce's free throws. Andover was never behind after this point. Andover also won their first game in seven years against Alfred-Almond.

John Hames, sophomore star continued his ways by netting 19 points, while Bob Joyce had 15 for the victors. North and Mitch Evans had 14 points apiece for the losing cause. The final score was 55 to 40.

Andover beat Alfred-Almond at the foul line with 15 for 22, while Alfred-Almond had 5 for 15.

Don't Drive After Drinking

Feature

by Connie L. Lewis
The March of Dimes

A very worthwhile money drive has just gotten under way here at A. C. S. It will continue throughout the month of January. This is for the March of Dimes.

Each homeroom has been equipped with a box for contributions. Let's make this the best year since A. C. S. has handled the drive. Think how lucky each of us is, not to be deprived of the joy of life by the crippling disease of polio. Polio is a very painful muscle disease. Hundreds of children all over the world are plagued by its horrible effects. However, due to the recently discovered Salk polio vaccine, thousands of children who might have suffered with polio will be saved.

The problem of birth defects is a major medical dilemma today; so is the puzzle of the crippling disease, arthritis. As yet, there has been no effective drug discovered that will successfully suppress their harmful effects. These marvels are few and far between - and they take a great deal of that green stuff (commonly known as MONEY).

This is where we, the students of A.C.S., come in. If we do our share by generously contributing and filling these containers to bursting, perhaps history will repeat herself more rapidly. Perhaps the "Salk vaccine" for birth defects and arthritis will save someone who is dear to you - or perhaps it could be YOU!

The drive for the March of Dimes is handled by one energetic Mrs. Marie Alvord. Each year in January Mrs. Alvord becomes Andover's Red Cross chairman. She not only supervises the drive here at A.C.S., she also holds the reins of the local drive.

For the staff of the Hi Herald, I would like to express our appreciation for many years of a job well done. We say "Thank you!"

Cub Basketball News

In Cub play Monday night both games were real thrillers right down to the final whistle. The first game between the Celtics and the Warriors went into an overtime period with the Celtics winning it 43 to 41. Danny Grant dominated the Celtic scoring with 31 points helped out by Dale Clark who contributed 8 points. Carl Thompson and Earl Buchholz led the Warrior scoring with 24 and 10 points.

The second game between the Lakers and the Royals was close all the way with the Lakers winning it by a score of 34 to 30. Clark and Brown shared scoring honors for the winning Lakers with 13 and 12 points. Tom Polmateer led the Royal scoring with 17 points.

The Celtics now lead the league with 5 wins and 2 losses.
