A Tribute To Mom

Every once in awhile you can walk down the corridor in school and hear these words, "That mother of mine, — she won't let me do such and such and she won't let me go out with so and so. She just does it to me mean."

Come on. You know that's not so. You can be sure that what she does, she does for your very own good. We don't always appreciate what she does for us. It is too bad, too, for she does so much for us. Just think of all the duties she performs. You could fill many pieces of papers doing so.

Of course we usually appreciate the "big" things she does like buying us a new suit or dress or helping us plan for a big get together with some friends. But it's the little things we forget and really when you come to think of it, they aren't such little things.

Mom gets up early in the morning to fix breakfast so that we start the day with some good food to give us energy throughout the day. She remembers to make sure we have everything. Everything she does throughout the day, she does for us. She cleans the house so we can live pleasantly; she cooks, sews and sometimes works outside the home so as to help with family expenses. There are so many things we don't even think about.

So Sunday, tell Mom how much you think of her in anyway you please. Then continue to do so all year through.
