Army Needs Musicians

The U.S. Army, according to Chief Warrant Officer Arthur Shettle, has recently organized a band for the metropolitan New York area. With the objective of developing a professional musical organization, this band will be one of the Army's showpieces. It will have concert, marching and stage band capability.

Mr. Shettle, the bandmaster, said there are openings for advanced instrumentalists (including string players, vocalists and entertainers). Those found acceptable will be guaranteed assignment with this band. This presents a unique opportunity to fulfill one's military obligation while remaining in the metropolitan area where continued study can be pursued.

Applicants may request an audition and interview by writing directly to the First U. S. Army New York Band, Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, New York 10305, telephoning 2112-G17-5100; Extension 637 or 403 or contracting your local Army Recruiter.
