New "Fish and Fishing in New York" Booklet Out

A new, free booklet called "Fish and Fishing in New York" will soon be available to the public.
State Conservation Commissioner R. Stewart Kilborne has announced.

"This colorful 40-page brochure will be of real value to all anglers," Commissioner Kilborne commented. "Along with full-color reproductions of fresh water and salt water game fish, it has plenty of helpful tips about likely places to catch them."

"Included in this handy booklet are both the Department's selection of the State's 50 best trout streams and a list of 300 remote Adirondack trout ponds stocked by airplane. More than 900 miles of public fishing streams are named and located, along with a complete list — by county — of most of the State's streams and lakes and the species of fish that can be taken in each, plus full-color plates of fresh and salt water lures on which to take them," the Commissioner pointed out.

Just reading the names of some of these waters — like "Bish Bash Brook", "Grizzle Ocean", "Snag Lake", and "Unknown Pond" — makes you want to find them and fish them," he said.

"And, just to demonstrate that some of the tall tales we fishermen traditionally tell really are true, a roster of the State's record game fish — complete with name, location, date and name of the successful angler — is also included."

"Our Conservation Department fish hatcheries — the sources of many of the fine fish that will be caught this season — are listed and located, along with a wealth of other information useful to anglers of all ages and degrees of experience."

"Fish and Fishing in New York" is expected to be available for distribution within the next few weeks, so send your request to: Division of Conservation Education, State Conservation Department, State Campus, Albany, New York 12226.

"There's sure to be a heavy demand for this new publication, so ardent anglers should get on the 'early bird' list — and be sure to include zip code numbers in return addresses," Commissioner Kilborne concluded.
