Warning To Swimming Pool Owners

Robert C. Burgess, Allegany County Fire Coordinator, and George H. Proper, Jr., Director of the Division of Fire Safety of the State Office for Local Government warned swimming pool owners that chlorine water purifiers in any form, are highly toxic and can be fatal.

Mr. Proper said that extreme caution should be observed when using or storing compressed chlorine gas, or chlorine crystals or pellets, for water purification.

"Chlorine gas fumes liberated from a chlorine cylinder, or from chlorine crystals or pellets when brought into contact with moisture, are highly toxic," he said, "inhalation of these fumes can be fatal."

Pool owners were urged by Mr. Burgess to use only clean, dry receptacles for transferring solid form chlorine from storage containers to their pools. Persons handling the chemical should avoid inhaling any fumes and prevent any skin contact with the concentrated crystals or pellets.

He also urged pool owners to keep the chemical stored in tightly closed containers in places where those containers will be safe from damage or breakage. Chlorine in any form should be kept away from such hydrocarbons as paints, paint thinners, gasoline and kerosene because these items can ignite spontaneously — resulting in both fire and release of deadly chlorine fumes — upon contact with chlorine. Children should not be permitted to handle the chemical.

In case of accident, evacuate immediately all persons from the area and stay upwind from the fumes. Notify your fire department that an accident involving chlorine gas fumes has occurred. If anyone has inhaled the fumes, call a physician or take the victim to a hospital. Inform the medical personnel that the victim has been exposed to chlorine gas fumes, in order to provide more efficient treatment.
