Andover Nets $491.50 In 1967 Cancer Crusade

The 1967 Cancer Crusade, has officially ended. The President of the American Cancer Society, Allegany County Unit, Dr. Roger W. Blaisdell reports that a record of $12,379.29 has been raised during the Crusade and that 18,000 copies of educational material was distributed throughout the county. "We surpassed our goal and bettered our best," he said. "In terms of today" he said, "Crusade results mean lives saved now. That is, if people put into action the cancer prevention, early detection and prompt treatment program which we have to make a part of everyone's life."

"In terms of tomorrow, the success of the Crusade will be determined by what the funds raised can buy in research, education and service. If a price tag could be put on final solution of the cancer problem it would be over subscribed in a matter of hours. Unfortunately, the price cannot be fixed. Life is reluctant to give up its fundamental secrets. The scientist seeking to dig them out, finds the process, slow, painstaking and often frustrating. However the funds raised will be translated into progress."

"Every gain we have made against cancer in this Crusade," Dr. Blaisdell added "is due to the hard work of our volunteers and the public's growing knowledge of the urgency of the problem." He said the volunteers "did a wonderful job and did it out of compassion for human life."

Andover was sixth in the County with a total of $491.50.

Saturday, September 9th has been set aside as a day of activity for Junior Girl Scouts with a fair date as September 23. The Council Program Committee has invited each Junior Girl Scout troop to go on a picnic that day because Girl Scouts like to be out of doors and the Camps are lonesome now that the summer camp season is over. There will be a hostess committee at each of the following sites to show troops around the camp. This is to be a day to relax and explore. There will be group singing at lunch time. But the rest of the time troops are on their own. In the afternoon each troop plans its own program, perhaps starting the Junior Scout Observer Badge. The visa to leave camp will be to repeat from memory the Conservation Pledge. Flag Ceremony will

Attention Motorist New Laws Effective Sept. 1st

Albany — Beginning September 1, New York motorists will be required to pay at least 10 percent of the annual premium if they purchase a new automobile liability insurance policy.

The new requirement, the result of an amendment to the Vehicle and Traffic Law, applies only to new policies.

It does not apply to a policy which replaces or continues a policy previously issued by the same company without lapse of coverage; or to an additional policy issued to the same person by the same company; or to a policy which is a replacement for a policy issued by a prior company if the same agent or broker placed both policies.

Insurance companies will be responsible to see that purchasers comply with the law and must certify compliance to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Also effective September 1, will become a misdemeanor to operate, or promote, races or speed contests — without permission of the state, city, town or village having jurisdiction.

A misdemeanor is punishable by a fine of not more than $100 and/or imprisonment of not more than 30 days. A second conviction within 10 months will be for a first offense and will be punishable by a fine of not more than $100 and/or imprisonment of not more than 30 days. Grow Corn Instead Of Hay Urges Cornell Agronomist

A Cornell University soil management specialist urges farmers to convert low-yielding hay fields into more profitable corn silage production.

The suggestion came from Prof. Keeshon Feuer, agronomist at the N. Y. State College of Agriculture Cornell.

Feuer said many commercial dairy farmers could profitably grow more corn silage by converting what he called "lazy, pale grass fields."

"There are several thousand acres of such grass hay sods and low yielding pastures throughout New York State," he pointed out.

Feuer said corn is one crop that will make these hay fields produce high corn silage yields — 20 to 24 tons to an acre at a hard dent maturity stage.

"Corn silage is a highly profitable crop to grow," he said. "If a commercial dairy farmer is not yet growing at least one acre of the crop per milk cow, he should consider the conversion seriously."

Corn silage offers several advantages over hay crops, he pointed out. For one thing, there is no alfalfa weevil problem to worry about.

It produces one and a half to twice the total digestible nutrients of hay crops per acre, he continued. More corn to cut in September means less hay making in rainy June.

"The corn crop is easily mechanized," he stressed. "In fact, it can be grown, harvested, stored, and fed to cows with almost no hand labor."

Besides conversion of hay fields into corn production can be done in only one year's time, Feuer said.
