Dale Polmateer Receives NMSQT Letter of Commendation

Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1967 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT) have been awarded to one student at Andover Central School, Principal James H. Kessler has announced.

The named student is Dale R. Polmateer.

He is among 40,000 students in the United States who scored in the upper 2 percent of those who will graduate from high school in 1968. The Commended students rank just below the 14,000 Semi-finalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, said: "Although Commended students advance no further in the Merit Scholarship competition, their outstanding record in a nationwide program deserves public recognition. Their significant academic attainment gives promise of continued success in college."

"The Commended students should be encouraged to pursue their education since their intellectual talent represents an important and much needed natural resource. Our nation will benefit from their continuing educational development."

The Commended students' names are reported to other scholarship-granting agencies and to the colleges they named as their first and second choices at the time they took the NMSQT. The reports include home addresses, test scores, anticipated college majors and career intentions of the Commended students. NMSC encourages these students to make every effort to continue their education.

Governor Requests Federal Aid For Flood Disaster Area

Governor Rockefeller, citing an estimated rain and flood damage in excess of $5,000,000, urged this week that the Cattaraugus County area be declared by President Johnson as one of "major disaster."

In the aftermath of the September 30 inundation of the area, the Governor, in a telegram Monday to Albert D. O'Connor, Regional Director of the Federal Office of Emergency Planning, reported the "severe and extensive damage" and quoted Hughson L. Case, chairman of the Cattaraugus Board of Supervisors as declaring that a state of emergency exists. "Accordingly," the Governor said, "I request a presidential declaration of the area as a major disaster area and the cooperation of your office in ascertaining damage estimates in detail. All appropriate state agencies have been requested to cooperate to the fullest extent. State Civil Defense Director, Manuel J. Asensio, has been in touch with your office and will serve as your contact."

"I certify," the Governor continued, "that the total expenditures and obligations by the government of the State of New York, its local governments or other public agencies thereof, over and above normal expenditures, for disaster relief purposes for this disaster and all other disasters during the twelve-month period immediately preceding this request, and for which no federal reimbursement has been or will be received, exceeds $5,000,000."

Research Promotion Said Vital To Dairy Industry's Survival

The dairy industry will cease to be a significant factor in the food industry of the future unless it turns toward new product development and aggressive promotion, a leading Cornell University food scientist says.

Prof. Robert F. Holland, head of the dept. of food science, N. Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell, said that the industry has set up laws, rules, specifications, and regulations in myriad forms to create monopolies and prevent new product development.

"But times have a habit of changing and the dairy producer or processor no longer has the legislative voice that he had in the past," he said.

Holland made these remarks while discussing the development of new dairy products, modified products, and substitutes at the 50th annual convention of the National Dairy Council of Canada in Ottawa.

Pointing to what he called "enormous possibilities" for development of new dairy foods, the Cornell scientist said the dairy industry must invest more money in laboratories, equipment, trained scientists, and promotion.

"The dairy industry is passing through a period of great change," he said. "To survive as an entity, it must be free to adopt the merchandising methods of the food industry and innovate where and when it is essential to meet consumer demands."
