Something From Home Best Gift, Servicemen Say

"Something personal" from the loved ones at home topped the list of Christmas gifts preferred by servicemen overseas, according to a survey just completed by the American Red Cross workers serving with U. S. forces around the world.

Familiar, capot, and portraits, color tapes, hometown newspapers, and many more letters were the most frequent gift suggestions made by servicemen in Europe, Korea, Japan, Vietnam and at other military posts overseas. An other timely tip for the folks back home was to use hometown news paper as packing in holiday parcels to give the servicemen a little home with them as they catch up on the latest news from home.

Almost important as the gifts themselves is the need to mail them in sufficient time for delivery before Christmas Day. The Red Cross said U. S. Post Office deadlines for overseas mailings are November 10, if by surface, or December 10, if by airmail. Many families, not their gifts a week or two in advance of these dates, it was pointed out.

Other gifts high on the list of preferred items included paper, book, magazines, small toys, and stationery, stationery with self-sealing envelopes, hand made articles known as the servicemen's preference, and extra money for buying other gifts of small items from hometown stores.

For the best presentation will be "The Life of Christ" by Thomas and Katherine. Each House will be from 3 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.
