If Your Sticker Is Green You'd Better Stop!

Is the inspection sticker on your car a green one? If it is, you'll be in trouble if you do not have your car inspected immediately, according to the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

The sticker, which proves that your car has been safety inspected, must show that this has been done within the past 12 months. In color, this indicates that your car was last inspected in 1966 and that you are in violation of the periodic inspection law. Violators are subject to a fine and possible suspension of registration certificate and plates.

Beginning last January 1, 1967 the sticker color was changed to red and the position was shifted to the upper center of the windshield. Beginning this month, inspection stations are issuing blue stickers that are located on the lower left side of the windshield. The 1967 and 1968 stickers have a punched out hole which indicates when the next inspection is due.

Mrs. Inez Ordiway, a patient in the St. James Mercy Hospital has been discharged.

Herman Lehman, a patient in the Bethesda Hospital, has been discharged.
