To determine when a soil is dry enough to spade or cultivate in any way, squeeze a handful tightly into a lump. Then try to break the lump between the thumb and one finger. If the lump crumbles, the soil is dry enough.

Democrats For McCarthy To Hold Workshop

Pro-McCarthy groups from Corning, Jamestown, Olean and Alfred will attend a workshop at 2 p. m., Saturday, March 16, at St. Jude's Newman Center Elm St., Alfred.

The Allegany County Area Committee for Eugene McCarthy is sponsoring the workshop in order to coordinate the groups, efforts and campaign effectively.

The Corning, Jamestown, Olean and Alfred delegations will bring their suggestions for candidates they wish to elect as delegates to the Democratic National Convention from the 38th congressional district. From these suggestions three candidates will be selected to campaign for the primary election.

A representative of Coalition for a Democratic Alternative, a New York-based group for registered Democrats and all others who are dissatisfied with Lyndon Johnson's Vietnam policies is also coming from Buffalo.

Topics planned for discussion at the workshop include aspects of the campaign such as laws and petitions, enlistment of support in the community, rallies, publicity, selection of campaign coordinators and the treasury. Participants will also consider plans for after the election.

An executive committee composed of Dr. James Young, the Rev. James Wood and Mr. David Davis was elected from the steering committee at last week's meeting of the Allegany County Area Committee for Eugene McCarthy. This committee will lead the local group in its goal of electing delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Any interested persons are welcome to attend the workshop in Alfred.
