Tree Seedlings Now Available For Spring Planting

Time is growing short for ordering tree seedlings from the New York State Conservation Department for planting this spring. Place your order now.

Seedlings are purchased in units of one thousand for $10.20. Species still available include: white Scotch and red pine, Norway and white spruce, and larch.

For seedlings to be planted in Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Erie, Genesee, Niagara Orleans, or Wyoming counties tree order blanks should be requested from Julius J. Eckert District Director of Lands and Forests, 335 East 3rd Street, Jamestown, N. Y. 14701.

Charles B. Kresge, District Director of Lands and Forests, 6 East Steuben Street, Bath, N. Y., 14810 will supply order blanks for Allegany, Chemung, Livingston, Monroe, Ontario, Schuyler, Seneca, Steuben, and Wayne counties.

People in western New York may wish to pick up their trees at the Oak Orchard Nursery which is between Buffalo and Rochester, 7 miles northeast of Oakfield. Indicate your intentions on the tree order form.

Reforestation should be done on open land to assure the young trees of sufficient sunlight for growth. Land not being farmed or mowed will revert to brush, unless steps are taken to insure a more desirable cover, such as evergreens.

Benefits from planting trees are varied. No one can deny the aesthetic value of a green tree, particularly, against the snows of winter. Wildlife utilize evergreens for cover and protection from the weather and predators. Wind breaks to shield farm crops, buildings, and roads are much appreciated. Soil erosion can be diminished with the soil holding ability of tree roots.

Commercial gains from trees run from Christmas trees, posts, poles, and pulpwood to eventually lumber. Now is the time to plant for these products, as it usually takes a minimum of eight years to obtain a good quality Christmas tree. Timber values should be realized after forty years.

If you have land suitable for growing trees, and it is laying idle now, put it to a productive and rewarding use. Order some trees now and plant them this spring.
