Editorial

by Mary Ellen Corwin

FAREWELL!

Upon writing my last editorial, I have many thoughts about my experiences this year. First of all, I have learned a great deal from it. I have learned, I hope, to write better and more maturely. I have learned to deal with my staff and reporters. I have had to accept a responsibility which was not always convenient.

I wish to thank all those members of my staff that did their assignments willingly and promptly. I wish also to thank Mrs. Woodruff, who has given so much of her time to the paper, and of course, Mr. Allen, who prints it. And last of all, I wish to thank all of the people of Andover and the surrounding area who have read the Hi-Herald and my editorials. It was always rewarding to hear someone say that they read and enjoyed the paper.

I now leave my duties to the next editor, whom I wish the best of luck.

- Cindy I. — "I'm terrified"
- Debbie B. — "It just seems possible that the same thing could have happened again in the same family"
