

Reba Luann Burton

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weatherby of Andover, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Reba Luann Burton to Larry Bruce Bush, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bush of Mayport, Pennsylvania.

The bride-elect is a 1968 graduate of Andover Central School. Her fiancé graduated from Randolph High School in 1966 and from Alfred State College in June of 1968, where he majored in electronics.

The wedding is planned to take place October 19.

Give Away Newspapers Can't Be Used For Official Advertising

A newspaper that's given away can't be used for official town advertising, say State Comptroller Arthur Levitt.

The question arose when town officials asked if they could advertise in a paper that's reputedly mailed to everyone in town — for free.

"It is our conclusion," said Mr. Levitt in answer, "that a 'penny-saver' type of advertising circular is not a newspaper, despite the reputed circulation."

This opinion extended to towns a view expressed earlier as to villages. In the Comptroller's view, "the absolute minimum requirements for designation of official newspapers" is that they be a newspaper, be established at least a year and have second class mailing privileges.

In addition, he said, "due process requires the use of publications most likely to reach the persons interested in the notice". And it has been held, Mr. Levitt noted, that where a person buys a paper he is more likely to read it than if he received it without charge.

Of the counties in upstate New York, Hamilton County has the highest proportion of forest lands and Monroe County the least.

Estimated Tax Changes

Individual taxpayers who have filed estimated tax declarations for 1968 and paid the first two installments are required to revise their estimates to reflect the new tax surcharge, John E. Foley, District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Buffalo, advised today.

He also pointed out that other taxpayers will become liable for filing estimated tax returns for the first time as a result of the tax surcharge. This is due to the requirement that generally, the difference in taxes withheld from individual income and income tax due for the calendar year must be less than $40 or an estimated tax return must be filed. Since the tax surcharge will be withheld by employers for wages paid on and after July 14, 1968 and the surcharge is retroactive to April 1, 1968, the difference in taxes due from an individual income may be over $40.

Individual taxpayers who are presently filing estimated tax returns will be provided with a new worksheet form, currently being developed, when they are mailed their third estimated tax installment bill due September 15, 1968.

The current IRS rule permitting individual taxpayers to base their estimated payments on their tax liability for the preceding year is suspended, beginning with the installment due September 15, 1968. Form 2210 for 1968 relating to the computation for underpayment of individual estimated tax will be revised to reflect these changes.

More Eggs, Fewer Farms Forecast By C. U. Prof.

There will be fewer poultry farms in New York State in years ahead, but egg production will continue to go up.

This was the forecast of Prof. Hollis R. Davis at the N. Y. State College of Agriculture, Cornell University, in speaking at the Poultrymen's Get-Together recently held at Cornell.

He said that the number of eggs sold per farm tripled in the 1959-1964 period, though the number of farms declined about 50 per cent.

If this trend continues, egg production in 1969 may hit the 220 million mark, a more than 40 million jump from the 1964 output, he said. The number of farms may come down to around 3,600 from 7,364 in 1964.

Davis said eggs will be produced on intermediate-size farms housing anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 birds. On the other hand, giant complexes operating from 100,000 to more than one million layers under one roof will become commonplace.

The large poultry farms, he noted, will be in excellent shape from an engineering standpoint, but such complexes will run into many problems in terms of changes in ownership, management, and waste disposal.

Poultry houses will be prefabricated in shops and assembled quickly on the site. Environmental control will become much more refined. Building materials will be lightweight, made of plastics or plastic-protected materials.

The agricultural engineer also predicted that the flow of feed, eggs, and waste in larger houses will be fully automated with the use of computerized memory units. Cage units will be made of new materials that will neither sag nor rust. They will be self-cleaning.

Eggs will be electronically cleaned, sanitized, graded, and packed. The laying house will be monitored in a remote control room. Closed circuit television is already in use for observation of birds as well as for mechanical operations, he said.

Allegheny County 4-H Dog Obedience Trials July 31 At Belmont

Allegheny County 4-H Dog Obedience Trials are scheduled for Wednesday evening, July 31, at 7:00 P. M., at the Village Park in Belmont. The public is invited to attend.

This graduation program concludes a 10 week series of classes offered to young people 9 - 19 years of age as a part of the 4-H Cooperative Extension.

Miss Rita Maher, Hornell, N. Y., will be judge for this event. Miss Maher is well known in Steuben County as an instructor on Dog Obedience for Southern Tier Kennel Club. She is presently conducting a Beginners Class for this group in Hornell. In addition to her judging, she will show her own dog, Rory, a Shetland sheep dog. Rory (a Companion Dog in America and Canada) will work on and off leash.

Two classes for 4-H members, with total enrollment of 17, have been conducted in Allegheny County. Instruction has been given by Miss Shirley Wurz, Alfred, N. Y., and by Mrs. Ceylon Endler, Fillmore N. Y. These 2 classes will meet jointly for this conclusion judging and demonstration.

The 4-H dog care and obedience training is conducted as a team-work program with a person and a dog working as a team. It teaches young people good sportsmanship, care and handling of animals, as well as character traits of patience and discipline. Dogs in these classes are first, second and third year members. Dogs in the Beginners class are trained on leash with Graduate Beginners trained to do the recall, longset and long down off lead.
