William R. Brady, Andover, re-cently completed a three-day ad-vanced agronomic short course at Chicago, Ill. An agricultural specialist with the Rainbow Di- vision of International Minerals & Chemical Corporation, he took part in a series of seminars on soil fertility developments. The pro- gram also covered nutrient needs for top yields, growth regulators and crop protection systems to meet the needs of today's top farmers.

A three-county re-grouping of existing school districts has been developed by the district superin- tendents of Allegany, Steuben and Cattaraugus counties, and will be officially revealed to school officials of Allegany County at a special dinner meeting on Oct. 1 in the Friendship Central School. If eventually accepted by the indi- vidual districts, it is believed the total effect would be to reduce overall administration & teaching costs and generally provide more courses through either an ex- change of teachers or transporta- tion of students among the several schools of combined districts or a combination of both. It would also broaden the tax bases.

Otto W. Walchli, 73, one of Allegany County's most promi- nent oilmen and bankers, died in the Jones Memorial Hospital, Sep- tember 19. Mr. Walchli associ- ated with petroleum and refining industries was instrumental in bringing Sinclair to Wellsville. An outstanding civic leader, he served for 34 years on the board of di- rectors of the First Trust Co. of Allegany County and later of the Citizens National Bank and Trust Co. He was past president of the Wellsville District School Board of Education. He maintained a life-long interest in young people, supporting their Seneca Council Boy Scouts of America and a di- rector of the former Tullar Field Association. Prominent in Mas- onic circles and was District Deputy Grand Master of the Allegany Masonic District. Surviving are his widow, two sons, three broth- ers and three sisters. Funeral services were held Saturday in the First United Methodist Church in Wellsville with the Rev. Glenn E. Bucher officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Wellsville.

Because of the purportedly policy of the Hornell Evening Tribune it is not possible for us to list all of the close relatives or ministers names in an obituary in that paper currently.

We are sorry that it seems impossible at this time but perhaps it may be corrected in the future.
