Two Boy Scouts from Troop 62, Greenwood, earned their "Citizenship In The Community" Merit Badges by writing the following interesting essays on Greenwood History.

THE EARLY HISTORY OF GREENWOOD
by Mike Fisher

Greenwood was formed from Troupsburg and Canisteo, January 24, 1827.

The town was named by Alexander H. Stephens. The hills and valley were heavily timbered with pine and hemlock, which added a deep green color to the scenery. Because of this it is thought, the town got it's name of Greenwood.

In 1855 Greenwood Village contained one church and 35 houses. West Greenwood was the Post Office. The first settlement was made in 1820 by Alexander Stephens. In the spring of 1821 Alexander Stephens and Anson Robertson cleared land and built a sawmill about one mile north of Greenwood. The families did not arrive until the mill was completed. Anson Robertson, Christian Cobey, John Ezra and Phineas Stephens and Eleazer Ordway settled in 1822. The first grist mill was built by Colonel John H. Stephens. The first inn and store were kept by Levi Davis, who was the first Supervisor. Sarah Carr taught the first school.

Benjamin F. Brundage came to Greenwood in 1830 and erected the first woolen and carding mill in the town. It was a successful business until it was destroyed by fire. This was replaced by a flour mill.

Levi bought the present site of Greenwood in the fall of 1824. In March of 1825 he moved into his new cabin and opened a tavern and store. In one corner of the room a bar was fenced off, in which he sold goods consisting of tea, snuff, cotton cloth, tobacco, pork, whiskey, oats, hay and indigo for coloring cloth. Whiskey at that time was sold at 20c a gallon at the still. He manufactured nut and pearl ash, which he carried on for 30 years. The first Post Office was at his store.

GREENWOOD HISTORY
by Brad Halsey

The first clearing for Greenwood is now where Carlton Cornell lives. In 1824 an Inn was built at Krusen's Corners near where Roger Mills lives today. Also in the same year Levi Davis bought the land which is now known as Greynwood Village.

Zeke Burger (of Troupsburg) was hunting one day and came upon the Salt Spring near where Mr. Hoagland now lives. He brought in supplies to try to get the salt and built a log cabin here.

The first mill in Greenwood was a saw mill built in 1820-21 by a Mr. Stephens near where the cemetery now is. (Orland Higgins property). Further up the creek (Woodward Hollow) there was a tannery. In 1825 Levi Davis built a store on the corner in the center of Greenwood from Route 17. It was the first store and it had a Post Office in it. In 1830 Burros and Matthews built a saw mill and built their home here. In 1832 a grist mill was made by Daniel McCormick and also built his home here. Joshua Chapman, a 15-year old boy brought mail to Greenwood by horse from Hornell in 1828 - 29.

James McCormick shipped the first butter from Greenwood.

Lynan Wilnot built the first grist mill in Rough and Ready, which was named after Zachery Taylor, who was running for President at the time.

The Universalist Church was where Bob Cheesman now lives. The preacher of this church lived at my grandfather's, Merrill Holt, house. In 1884 Greenwood had a foundry which was where Duretto's store now is.

In 1890 the population of Greenwood was 1,306.

Christmas carols are played during December on the Great Stalacpipe Organ of the beautiful Cathedral chamber in Caverns of Luray in Virginia.

LIVING UNDER LAW

YOUR PATENT RIGHTS

Floyd invented a novel snow remover for use on sidewalks in 1965. His invention was easy to build and with the help of a local manufacturer Floyd began making a few at a time and selling them to the people in town. He even published an article describing his new snow remover and how it worked. By the winter of 1967 demands for snow removers increased to such an extent that Floyd decided to start a business of his own manufacturing snow removers.

Before starting his own business, Floyd decided that he should protect himself by getting a patent for his invention. Much to his surprise, he was advised that he could not obtain a patent. His invention had been public use for more than one year prior to his application. Such use of his invention for more than a year before filing an application barred his right to a patent. Nor will the fact that he wrote and published an article about his snow remover save Floyd's patent application. The law provides that the inventor is not entitled to a patent if the invention has been described in a printed publication anywhere in the world more than a year before his patent application is filed.

Any inventor may obtain a patent regardless of age or sex, by complying with the provisions of the law. A foreign citizen may obtain a patent under exactly the same conditions as a U. S. citizen.

The subject of a patent may be almost any new and useful machine, manufacturing process, or improvement thereon, or any new original and ornamental design for an article of manufacture. In general, improvements that would be obvious to a man skilled in the art are not considered to be patentable. A useless device or a machine that won't work cannot be patented.
