resents Alternate Plan For Consolidation

The most disturbing fact to the Board of Education of the Andover Central School District is the soard of Education of the Andover Central School District is the fact that three principals, a discrict superintendent and a representative of the State Education Department met in the northern part of the county which has littie or no contact with our area or anderstanding of it and decided unilaterally how to divide up the county into consolidated districts.
We wonder why the superintendient of schools of Wellsville, New York, the district principal of Andover, N. Y., the district principal of Alfred-Almond Central School and the superintendent of schools in Hornell, New York, which represents the most thickly opulated area in all of Allegany County, were not advised or asked for any advice regarding this procosed merger.

At the present time the Alfred-

At the present time the Alfred-Almond school district and the Andover school district area is the only rapidly growing area in this county. The reason for this is the lapid growth if the Alfred Agricultural and Technical College at Alfred and the growth of Alfred University, both of which are expected to be twice as large as they are now in 1975. No consideration was given to the types of community which were to be consolidated nor their close affiliations and contacts with Alfred, both the technical school and uniooth the technical school and university.

It is interesting to us here in Andover to hear the discussions hat the individual child must be hat the individual child must be considered when the larger the init becomes the less individual the child becomes. In a decision made by the group in the northern part of the county which did not consult us, we are sure that the children of Andover received no consideration whatsoever and the decision was reached by looking at a man.

We hear that enlarged units are more efficient, they have a larger field of subject matters, but former Marie Hansen of Penn Yan, N. Y. He is the father of five children, Donald, Lynn, Mich-ele, Paul and Gregory.

as we look at the larger units in the State of New York the subject matter enlargement is immaterial masmuch as a very large percent of the subject matter in the high school is mandated by the state. The studies that have been made regarding larger units being more efficient and cheaper to operate cannot be defended inasmuch as most of these studies do not relate to our situation whatsoever.

The Andover district has co-

The Andover district has cooperated fully with the old Vocational Board and was one of the original subscribers to the Board of Cooperative Educational Serices and all of its services which it provides. The vocation school as it develops will meet entirely the needs of this area for vocaional education which eliminates it from discussion regarding the ional education which eliminates it from discussion regarding the maintenance of the local school. A perfect example as a school and organization increases in size is the increase in administrative costs of the school district to B. O. C. E. S. That is beside the point however and this district is willing to meet these costs and is able to meet any costs that arise in the future as a result of the development of this school at Belmont, New York.

The removal of a school from a ment of this school at Belmont, New York.

The removal of a school from a small runal community in the State of New York is a very serious social problem because the entire life of the community revolves around the school with use of the building and all of the facilities which it provides. This is not true in larger units. It is time someone made a very careful study of the value of the small rural school to the small rural school to the sociological development in the State of New York. We would like to see a study made sometime of the values of the small school taking into consideration all that is done for the individual punil compared to the large school where we are sure that all of the actifities stem from a monetary basis. This district has provided one of the most beautiful buildings for its pupils in the State of New York and has provided an educational program which is equivalent to any school much larger in th State of New York. It does not need an addition and would handle any future growth foreseen in the future.

which includes Wellsville, Scio, Andover Town, the Village of Andover, Alfred, Alfred Town, Amond and Almond Town. This will be a very comprehensive study taking into consideration land use, water facilities, recreational facilities, growth potential and all the things that are necessary in a complete comprehensive plan for an area. The development of roads, proper use of schools and facilities are all to be taken into consideration. consideration.

The alternative that the Board of Education of Andover seems to think might have some chance of think might have some chance of becoming a reality in the future, an not in the immediate future (ither, is a consolidation of the Alfred-Almond school district and the Andover school district. This is our alternate proposal. It is hased on the similarity of children, our considerably above average test norms in both schools, the small number of dropouts, the lack of any integration problem, and the use of Alfred University and the technical school for our graduates. All of these things bind our two school districts together very closely and would give probably one of the largest educational areas in the state.

It is as a result of considerable areas in the state.

It is as a result of considerable thought on the part of the Board of Education that we request that you remove from being incorporated into the Village of Wellsville which would be impossible ever to carry in a referendum. We arrasking that you combine on your map the Alfred-Almond Central School and the Andover Central School which will within the very near future have a pupil population of over 2000.
