Questions and answers about Freedom Shares - the new way for Americans to help their country as they help themselves.

- Q. What are Freedom Shares?
A. They are the new U.S. Savings Bonds - a combination product to the Series E Savings Bond.
Q. Who may buy Freedom Shares?
A. Any individual who purchases Series E Bonds regularly through a formal plan - either Payroll Savings where he works or Bond-a-Month where he banks.
Q. What is the interest rate on Freedom Shares?
A. 4.74% compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of 4 1/2 years. The rate is less if redeemed prior to maturity; and they may not be redeemed for at least one year.
Q. Does this same rate now apply to E Bonds?
A. No. E Bonds continue to return an average of 4.15% when held to their seven-year maturity.
Q. What do Freedom Shares cost?
A. They are issued in face amounts of $25, $50, $75, and $100. Purchase prices are $20.25, $40.50, $60.75, and $81.00.
Q. Can Freedom Shares be bought by themselves?
A. No. They must be bought in conjunction with E Bonds of the same or larger face amounts.
Q. Can I buy as many Freedom Shares as I want, as long as I buy E Bonds of the same or larger amounts?

- A. No. On Payroll Savings, Freedom Share deductions are limited to $20.25 per weekly pay period, $40.50 per bi-weekly or semi-monthly pay period, $81.00 per monthly pay period. On Bond-a-Month, the limit on Freedom Share deductions is $81.00 per month.
Q. How will the Freedom Shares be registered?
A. Registration must be identical with the E Bonds bought in combination.
Q. Are Freedom Shares subject to taxation?
A. The same as E Bonds. Interest is subject to Federal income tax, which may be deferred until maturity or redemption (whichever comes first). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes. Current values are subject to estate, inheritance, gift, and other excise taxes, both Federal and state.
Q. Will Freedom Shares be extended beyond maturity, as E Bonds have been?
A. No. Under existing law, there is no provision for extension.

LIVING UNDER LAW

"YES, THAT'S MY SIGNATURE"

Your signature, like your fingerprint is unique. It identifies you in business transactions, such as a credit account, contract, and other instances where you must "sign here"

There are some instances in the law where a witness must verify the fact that you are the one who signed a particular document. This could be in the case of a will. The witness to the will may be called into court to verify that "Yes, that's Mr. Smith's signature."

There are instances where a person signing a document does not acknowledge that the document was put there voluntarily. This may be...

This acknowledgement must be made before a notary public or other qualified officer.

The procedure was put into law many years ago to eliminate the obvious possibility of coercion on someone's part to force another to sign a contract. The notary must determine that the signature was affixed as indicated.

The notary public is qualified, among other duties, to take affidavits and depositions, to receive and certify acknowledgments or proof of deeds, mortgages and powers of attorney, and to administer oaths in various instruments in which he may be called to have his instrument signed before the notary or to receive the acknowledgment under oath to the notary that the signature of the instrument is in fact his or her own.
