To The Editor:

Re. "News That's Print to Fit" Column:

I whole heartedly agree with you, Dick Wittie and numerous other people about the road block to the Greenan fire.

At that "Y" intersection, besides a fireman (?) blocking one road there was a non-fireman's car, pulled straight across the other road. A few privileged people were allowed to pass thru the "sacred" gates" but also this was almost 2 miles from the fire.

Now, this is positively ridiculous. The road to Greenan's from Trapping Brook was not guarded at all; people pulled their cars off the road and it was passable at all times. I think who ever was responsible for this stupid action had better think twice before it is pulled off again. Had we done the same thing a few yards away on our own property, we'd been arrested for not allowing the road to be used in an emergency.

I can tell you one family who is pretty disgusted and we have members belonging to the Department.

Sincerely (Name Withheld)

Servicemen May Obtain N.Y.S. Chauffeur License Without Road Test

A serviceman may now obtain a New York State classified chauffeur license without taking a road test if he meets certain qualifications.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent L. Tofany says that this waiver applies to servicemen on active duty and also to former servicemen who apply within a year of discharge.

To qualify for this exemption, an applicant must present a certificate of service or discharge, and a government motor vehicle operator's identification card (Form SF-46) certifying he is qualified to drive the type of vehicle for which he wants a license.

He also must pass any required preliminary tests, written or otherwise.

A New York State driver's license or a valid license from another state is not needed.
