

Dr. Finla Goff Crawford Honored At Syracuse U.

Chancellor William P. Tolley today named Syracuse University's Center for Continuing Education in honor of Finla Goff Crawford, who was vice chancellor at the University for 17 years.

Dr. Tolley unveiled a plaque which cites Crawford for "his service and influence" during 40 years at Syracuse University.

Syracuse University in its centennial year can be proud of the service it has been giving for more than half a century in adult education," Dr. Tolley said.

"The Chancellor Finla Crawford is one of the great educators of our time. In his long and distinguished career at Syracuse he was a professor in the Maxwell School and dean of the College of Liberal Arts before his appointment as vice chancellor. Under his direction we developed perhaps the finest adult education program in the nation. It is therefore most appropriate that our Center for Continuing Education be named in his honor," Dr. Tolley continued.

Crawford joined the University in 1919 and taught political science. He was dean of the College of Liberal Arts from 1938 until 1950. He was appointed vice chancellor in 1942. He retired in 1959 and lives on Pleasant Ave., in Andover, N. Y.

Finla G. Crawford was born in Cameron Mills in Steuben County and graduated from Canisteo Academy in 1911. In 1958 he was elected to the board of directors of the Citizens National Bank. He also served a 2-year term as trustee on the Andover Village Board.

Alexander N. Charters, vice president for continuing education, Kenneth G. Bartlett, vice president and dean of public affairs, and Frank Funk, assistant dean of University College, were present at the morning ceremony. Bartlett was the first dean of University College, the continuing education college of Syracuse University from 1946 to 1952. Charters was dean from 1952 to 1964.

The Finla Goff Crawford Center for Continuing Education is on Roney Lane west of Jamesville Ave. The plaque honoring Crawford is at the intersection of Roney Lane and Smith Lane.

The Center houses the Library for Continuing Education, the Education Resources Information Center Clearinghouse on Adult Education, the International Management Development Department (of the College of Business Administration) and University College's Continuing Education Center for the Public Service. It has classrooms, as well as dining and residence facilities for adults participating in continuing education program.

New Traffic Laws Now In Effect

Albany — Statutes involving drunken driving tests, safety belts for school bus drivers, and slow-moving vehicles, are among the new laws which take effect in September, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced today.

One of the new statute (Chapter 1027) permits the use of "screening type" breath tests by police officers. Such tests would be used to determine whether the operator of a motor vehicle involved in an accident, or operated in violation of any provision of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, has consumed alcoholic beverages.

The new school bus law (Chapter 818) requires vehicles owned or leased by school districts and non-public schools are "for hire" vehicles used to carry school children to be equipped with a seat belt for the driver. The statute also requires the driver to use the seat belt.

The law becomes effective September 1, 1969. However, because of difficulties which may be encountered by large fleet owners in completing the required installation of belts by that date, the effective date for buses owned by persons having a fleet of more than 40 vehicles has been deferred until October 1, 1969.

The slow-moving vehicle provision (Chapter 322) adopts the "slow-moving vehicle" emblem of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers as an official State emblem.

The design for the emblem is a triangle with a fluorescent central portion bordered by a reflective red outline. This emblem has been in wide use on a voluntary basis. The new statute becomes effective this month but its use will not become mandatory until 1972.

News That's Print To Fit

In looking over last week's column while we were proof reading it, we noticed that we hadn't covered everything that we had intended to as far as the ponds are concerned. We have been told that all kinds of debris has been thrown into the ponds including old R. R. ties etc. And, some of the older residents have been sort of keeping an eye out to see who some of the culprits might be.

Imagine the surprise of one of these interested citizens when he saw some one down around the pond area fooling around and upon investigating found that one of the local sportsmen students was wading around in one of the ponds, hauling some of the debris out of the ponds to try and make it a better place to fish in.

We know who the young man is and commend him for his actions but are refraining from mentioning his name so that the vandals that are helping create this problem don't try and take their spite out on him for doing something decent.

However, something like this could make a worthy project for some group of young men that are banded together or even an older group of sportsmen that are interested in conservation. 10-4?

This also reminds us that we understand that Max has come up with a new type and different model of lawnmower down over on the "Canadian Side" of town. According to reports it is about 1 horse power, is rideable, grey in color, and is a four-legged model. In fact, we seem to recall that there is a song written about a much older — but similar model. Yep, as we recall the words go something like this: "The old grey mare ain't what she used to be" etc. How about it Max, are you going to turn in for a patent on your different type of mower?

And, while surveying this type of invention, we understand a different type of survey has been made fairly recently in town with some rather surprising results as far as one of the parties involved is concerned.

In fact, the way it was told to us is that a plant box or two is mighty close to — if not a wee mite over — the property line, and there sure must be something to the tale as we haven't seen this car parked in the driveway since the survey took place. How about that — ?

How does that old saw go? Time heals all wounds — or is it — Time wounds all heels?

R. Theodore Smith Promoted To Associate Professor

A former resident of Andover has received a promotion at Jamestown Community College. R. Theodore Smith has been promoted to the rank of Associate Professor, according to an announcement made this week by college officials.

Prof. Smith, a 1954 graduate of Andover Central School, is chairman of the Biology Department at the Jamestown college. He completed his undergraduate work at Syracuse University and did graduate work at Syracuse and SUNY at Buffalo. In addition, he has completed specialized scientific curricula at Kansas State Univ., of North Carolina and the University of Rochester Medical Center.

At JCC he has served as president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors and the Faculty Association. The college's public relations office indicated Smith has taken his knowledge of the biological sciences from the classroom into government. In 1965 he became the youngest person ever to be elected to the Chautauque County Board of Supervisors as a Democrat where he pursued programs designed to abate environmental pollution. He is especially active in programs related to air pollution.

The father of two children, Kevin and Jeffrey, Smith is married to the former Patricia Conti of Jamestown. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Smith, reside at 87 Elm Street in Andover.

Big Game Licenses Not Available Yet

The State Conservation Department advised hunters today that although party permit applications are now available at license issuing agencies in New York State some agents have not yet received their supply of licenses by the end of next week.

Each prospective party member must include the "Party Permit Stub" portion of his big game license with the application. Completed applications may be submitted as soon as licenses become available, but not later than September 20. No preference will be given to applications submitted early, but no applications will be accepted that are postmarked September 21 or later.

A party — ranging in size from two to four members, depending on the area chosen — may take a deer of either sex in addition to the one antlered deer legally allowed each member of the party as an individual big game hunter.

Complete information about applications, quotas, party size, management areas and hunting with a party permit are contained on the information sheet which is distributed with each party permit application.

Ed. note: So far in Allegany County, the only thing that is missing is the required back-tags but until these are issued to the agents, no big game licenses can be sold.

Festival of Grapes To Be Held September 26 - 28

Silver Creek — "Grape is King" will be the theme for this year's Festival of Grapes which will be held here September 26 - 28.

Preparations for the forthcoming second annual Festival have been steadily gaining momentum and are now well under way in this community where nearly one hundred years ago the first concord grape commercial vineyards were planted on area farms.

The first Festival held in Sept. of 1968 proved so successful that a permanent organization was set up which now has a membership of over 300 persons in the Lake Shore Grape Belt area.

The Festival which was organized by a group of public spirited citizens is a non-profit community endeavor to honor the grape growing industry and grape by-products.

This year a new innovation will be a two-day Antique Show and the Art Show which proved a big attraction during the 1968 Festival will be held on both Saturday and Sunday.

The official Opening will be on Friday evening after which Grape Bowl Football game will be played with a teen-age dance to follow. There will be industrial exhibits, carnival rides, concessions, home cooked meals and chicken barbecue.

Major events on Saturday will be tours of the local grape vineyards, float parade, crowning of grape queen, and awarding of prizes climaxed with the Festival of Grapes Ball in the evening.

Also, there will be grape judging and grape pie baking contests, cooking demonstration using grapes, table decorations contest, baton twirling competition and youth recreation activities.

Bill and Mildred Miller, television personalities of WBen-TV's Meet the Millers program will be special guests on Saturday and will act as judges for the grape queen and pie baking contest.

Sunday, the closing day of the Festival will be high-lighted by a grand march parade in which many units will participate. Earlier in the day an outdoor concert will be held.

In carrying out the theme, regal decorations will add to the three day festivities.

Brochures and further contest information may be obtained from Festival of Grapes, Inc., P. O. Box 247, Silver Creek, New York 14136.
