The term broadloom, used in referring to carpeting, does not refer to quality but rather to the width of the loom used in manufacturing the carpeting.

Clay pots containing house plants sometimes turn white or crusty because they are loaded with insoluble, unused fertilizers which are toxic to root development.

My Pet Peeve

There are several things in this world which do not satisfy me. However, the number of these things does not, by any means, outweigh the number of those things with which I am satisfied. Life isn't all bad. The main ingredient required is understanding. Since we human beings think of ourselves as the most important creatures on earth, it is up to us to bring about true understanding.

True understanding is a rare thing to be found. It demands much from a person. That person must learn to give a small part of himself, and his world to another person. We are all equal and we have to learn to think in terms of the others around us instead of continually centering our thoughts on ourselves and our own problems.

My "pet peeve" deals with people who don't understand other people because — they don't try. They don't care what happens to their friends, their neighbors or their enemies. What kind of a person is this?

This person is very selfish. He would rather buy two chocolate candy bars than put his dime in a Red Cross collection. He judges people by their appearance and if they aren't particularly handsome, he automatically refuses to have anything to do with them. He laughs at certain habits which he finds in other people, but not in himself. He thinks that because everybody is not like him, they are all peculiar. He thinks that because they don't possess the same ideas which he has, they are all wrong. All of these characteristics exemplify the lack of understanding.

The person who is like this has to make others look small in order to make himself look big. Are you that kind of person? Try a little understanding.

The Annual Fall Rally of the Central Western B District was held on Wednesday, November 5, at Canaseraga Central School.

The speaker for our Rally was Rev. Timothy Weider, a social worker on the project REACH. He spoke of the challenges that we as future homemakers and citizens will face in the near future. He mentioned the many hungry, homeless and starved people in our world today and how we as future homemakers can help solve their problems.

Rev. Weider was voted by the Jaycees as one of the top five most distinguished and outstanding people in New York State. We all enjoyed having him at our Rally.

There were twenty girls present at the Rally from Andover, one advisor and one Chapter mother. Everyone had a most enjoyable and interesting time.
