Greenwood Central School News

National Book Week, November 16 - 22, was observed at Greenwood Central School. Mrs. Virginia York, Librarian, gave book talks about the new books in our school library.

Special Book Week lessons were presented to each elementary library class. The primary students discovered that a book has specific parts. Transparencies were shown to promote proper care of a library book. The kindergarten students had lapel badges about Book Week. The other primary grades made book markers. The second, third and fourth grades saw a film "The Making Of A Book". The middle grade students saw an actual signature as it came from the press. Ditto sheets about assembling the printed pages into book form were studied. The students learned a choral reading about books. The fifth graders illustrated their favorite books.

The sixth graders presented the play, "Death in the Library". The theme of the play was how reading books destroys ignorance and indifference. Some of the important roles were as follows: Detective played by Gary White, Policeman, Tom White and Librarian, Cindy Dennison.

The theme of Book Week was "Book Power". After the science assembly sponsored by General Motors, the library clerk made a book display of books about atomic, chemical and electrical power. Daniel McNeill of grade three wrote and illustrated a little book.

At a recent meeting of the Greenwood Central School, Board of Education, held at the school, the following business of general interest was discussed and acted upon.

Little information had been received for the easement on Robert Hoagland's property, for the school's drainage system. Mr. Hoagland was present to report on any information he had received.

An interchange program with Jasper, Troupsburg, and Canisteo was discussed. The Clerk was asked to send a letter to James Roach, Canisteo Central School expressing their wish to meet with the other schools to discuss this further.

The Board authorized the transfer of money for various accounts to balance them out.

Mrs. Sally Martinez, Spanish teacher, submitted her resignation, effective December 19, 1969. The Board accepted her resignation with regret.

Bus routes were discussed and the Board agreed to keep the routes as approved earlier, utilizing six buses.

A school car policy was set up allowing anyone, working for the school or working in relation to the school, to use the car for school business.

The use of buses for spectators for school functions was discussed. A policy was set up as follows: All students that go away on a bus will return on the same bus, unless the chaperone is personally approached by the parent. One spectator bus will be used normally.

Mr. Wright was authorized to get signs printed for school grounds regarding trespassing.

Mrs. Kathleen O'Hagan was placed on tenure effective February 1, 1970, pending Superintendent Miller's written approval.

The tax collector's report was approved. $79,427.65 in taxes has been collected, $3,734.57 was returned to the County Treasurer.

Mr. Wright reported that one family's children have not been immunized against polio and measles. Any new children to the district will not be allowed to enter without showing proof of immunization against small pox, measles and polio.

Mrs. Sara Squire's request was granted to attend a Guidance Counselor's conference in Concord November 16 - 19 with expenses partially paid.

Mrs. Ann Yeagley's request to take her health class and two homemaking classes to Bethesda Hospital was also granted.

All claims were authorized to be paid.
