Federal Income Tax Filing Requirements Eased

An estimated six million people will no longer be required to file income tax returns because of liberalized rules added to the law by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, John F. Foley, District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Buffalo, said today.

Mr. Foley said a single person is not required to file a return unless he has income of $1700 or more. Previously, he said, such a person had to file if he had $600 or more income. Single persons 65 or over do not have to file a return unless they have $2300 or more income instead of $1200 as in the past.

The increased filing requirements apply also to married couples, but only if they live together and file jointly and neither is a dependent of another taxpayer. Such a couple, under 65 do not have to file a return until their combined income reaches $2300. If both are 65, or over, no return is due on income under $3500, or under $2900 if one of them is 65 or over.

Married persons filing separately, however, are still required to file returns on income of $600 or more, the same as in the past.

Persons with net profit of $400 or more from self-employment must file and pay the self-employment tax, even though no income tax may be due.

Anyone not required to file but who has income tax withheld should file a return to get his refund, Mr. Foley said.

Hay is the most widely grown crop in the United States, covering about 62 million acres in 1969 and valued at $3 billion, second only to corn.
