COLUMBUS DAY

In grade school we learned how Columbus discovered America. But, that was quite awhile ago. Over the years we have probably forgotten how he did come to discover this land.

On August 3, 1492 Columbus left on his journey. He was accompanied by three ships. They were: the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria. Nine days later they reached the Canary Islands. This was the last land that they saw, before reaching what they thought were the Indies.

On October 10, everyone agreed to sail on for three more days and then return if land was not found. On October 12, Columbus landed on the beach at Fernandes Bay and took possession of a New World (as it proved to be) for Spain.

On October 12, Columbus landed on the beach at Fernandes Bay and took possession of a New World (as it proved to be) for Spain. As time went on however, this land proved worthless. There were no riches. Columbus died a poor man. No one realized the value in what he had discovered.

Thirty years later, however, the Old World had a renewal of human spirit. Columbus had not only discovered a New World, but his success had encouraged other discoveries and opened new windows to science and to all knowledge. To few men in modern history does the world as we know it owe so great a debt as to Christopher Columbus.

National School Lunch Week

This week is National School Lunch Week (October 10 - 16). The school lunch program is an important part of the American school curriculum. This program dates back to 1853 in New York City where free lunches were given to the children in industrial schools.

This program also teaches the child good food habits by serving a balanced meal and a variety of foods. One-third or one-half of the daily vitamin requirements are usually met by the meal that the pupil can only get a good education when he is enjoying good health.

This year for the first time, a school is organizing a Lunch Council. The purpose of this council is to give assistance in selecting recipes and menus for use in the cafeteria. It is also to reason why some menus are more popular with the students than others.

The following students have been elected to represent their homeroom in the Council:
Seniors - Sharon Lewis, Barbara, Barb Leonard
Juniors and Seniors - Jimmy Perkins

Sophomores - Rose Billings
Freshmen - Judy Perry
Ninth Grade - Melody Weber
Eighth Grade - Diane Bliss
Seventh Grade - Edward Joyce
Sixth Grade - Susan Dougherty and Diane Parker

UNEXPECTED SIDELIGHTS ON THE NEWS

by Vent Neff

"We're not kids. We know that unless a company is profitable, we're not going to get any benefits, and we know, too, that a company that goes out of business isn't going to provide any employment."

That's what I. W. Abel, sharp proxy of the United Steel Workers of America said just prior to the most recent labor-management negotiations. Congratulations, Mr. Abel. You know what you're talking about. You realize that the country is already hard-pressed by soaring inflation, and that the gigantic salary hikes constantly demanded and won by organized labor are a major cause of it.

So let's all be grown-up about the situation and try to keep union demands in proper proportion to productivity. Because as Mr. Abel so wisely implies, when the well runs dry, no one will have anything to drink. At all.

That Soviet seaman who tried to jump ship and seek asylum in the U.S. got off with a surprisingly light sentence, considering the usual severity of Communist justice - he'll only have to serve a ten year prison term!

Flagrant facts and figures:

It has been alleged that thousands of young drug addicts support themselves and their habit with government welfare funds - which, as you know, come from your tax money and mine - and they brag about it, too.

The Trotskyite Communist group that sponsored the last "peace" rally in Washington ran big, expensive ads in the New York Times inviting people to march in the demonstration. The ads were supposedly signed by the members of the First Air Cavalry Division in Vietnam. It was later revealed that these men's names were supplied without their consent by a "friend". The First Cavalry boys not, they knew of the ad, nor had they signed it, nor paid for it. Aren't the Communists, who have no freedom in their homeland, hoisting us by our own petard - our hard-won freedom - for all?

This year's wage hike demanded by the Communications Workers of America (also the telephone workers union) is sky-high, even by inflationary standards - 25% more, right across the board, for a half-million employees. Who will pay for it, in the long run? You and I, no doubt, in the form of higher phone bills. (Hello, there, telephone union leaders - hold the line!)

During the past fiscal year, the staggering total of 12 million people bought their daily bread and beef stew with government food stamps. This number includes the legitimate poor and underprivileged, plus union members on strike against their employers, college students, hippies and other parasites who would rather live off government handouts paid for by the ordinary citizen's taxes than work for a living.

While the average American considers himself lucky to get even a nominal pension upon retirement, it has been reported that little Mr. Big Labor, Jimmy Hoffa, is entitled to collect a mere $1,500,000 under his pension arrangement with the Teamsters, the world's largest union, upon stepping down from the Pres-how much they have spent on honorariums for such speeches to "educate" the masses.

The railroad workers - again - demanded a whopping 34% wage increase. The much objected already straggled, strapped railroads. Result? A nation-wide strike. No one shouted the workers. No commuting. No food deliveries. No shipping of medicine or perishables (and approximately 40% of our country's goods are shipped by rail).

Settlement was postponed until October, and Congress granted a 13% interim increase. Now what happens? When fares and freight rates are inevitably hiked up to keep pace with the workers' raises, who will be able to afford to travel or ship things anywhere? Aren't these guys, like so many other union groups, really defeating their own purposes by demanding a fast buck?

Of course, the Russians lyingly maintain that in all of the countries they have conquered, "the people have invited Russian intervention." We are being organized to keep peace at any price, while they are being deliberately programmed to Communize the whole world.

The arrogance of organized labor in its efforts to buy and defeat the Congress of the United States never ceases to amaze me. Bill Hoffa speaks personally to the press not only to get the news according to his own self-serving point, but also instruct the reader how to think and react to it.

One paper, in particular, is very open to a new kind of propaganda, which has influenced millions of Americans, has its own peculiar system of getting out lawmakers in Washington via "labor's selected." For instance, all Congressmen who vote for labor-supported legislation are marked "R" or "Right." The ones who dare to go against the wishes of labor are marked "W" or "Wrong."

Only once in the history of labor, donated $1,000,000 to the Democrats; $1,000 to the Republicans; and singled out a certain Congressman from the Northeast for a $10,300 "gift." This individual, we can only assume, must have voted for the Democrats in his strategic voting.
