Editorial

Throughout the year, I have hit upon the dormancy of the student body and the Student Council. Now there has come some activity which should be accredited with an apparent concern on behalf of the Student Council and other motivated students.

It all started with the idea of having an open Student Council meeting one ninth period which resulted in an opportunity for the Student Council to get together with Mr. Jordan. What transpired at this meeting was the discussion of many ideas for the improvement of our school. Just a sample of what this meeting accomplished is that a committee was formed to review and revise our present eligibility system. This committee will later join with a joint committee of faculty and students to decide on the system's future. That should bring a smile to the faces of all you great athletes.

The Student lounge was also discussed and it was established as a physical impossibility for A. C. S. There's just no place to have one right now. Someone had the suggestion of opening the courtyard during warm weather, improving its appearance and allowing students to congregate or use the area for various purposes. A pay phone was suggested. Then the issue of having lighted tennis courts was brought up and well looked into. These are a few of the topics discussed.

The results of these suggestions and topics are yet to be seen, but the Student Council has taken a big step towards motivating improvements and new ideas. This meeting established the ability and willingness of Mr. Jordan to lend an ear to the student voice and the Student Council's capabilities toward rational, logical action. Maybe there will be a greater student-faculty relationship from all of this, even if nothing else actually takes place.

Double up, America.

Two can ride cheaper than one.

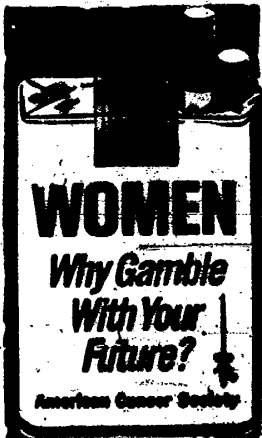

If you drive to work by yourself, you're spending twice as much money on commuting as you should.

That's too much.

Cut it in half. Take a friend.

Not only will your daily commute cost you half as much, but that monotonous trip will be a lot more pleasant.

Let's double up. Carpools are a great way to get where you're going. Faster and cheaper.
