Editorial

by Diane Bliss

We've all touched on the subject of good sportsmanship at one time or another and maybe occasionally have experienced a lack of it. Most aren't willing to admit it, but when the time arises, all control is lost when it's most needed. All it takes to establish your reputation as a good-natured sport is a bit of self-discipline and possibly a smile here or there. If it can be sacrificed. Now why would anyone want good sportsmanship? For the most part, it makes not only the other person involved a little more tolerant of you, but you don't experience that deep-down, ugly feeling after losing control of yourself so often it feels good.

What player do the spectators notice more in sports than the top scorer or rebounder? People seem to take notice of the ones who control themselves, pass off a bad call with a smile and still play a decent game. People like to see player like that rather than the loud-mouthed, pushy bad sportsmanship of a few players. Seeing bad sportsmanship makes people hostile towards that player and, possibly as a result, towards that team.

Don't think for a minute that good sportsmanship and a friendly attitude are just for use in athletic competition. No way would this world stay together if good sportsmanship pertained to just a few people in a few activities. It counts greatly in your efforts to make friends, understand others and avoid physical as well as verbal conflicts. There is a quote which says, "One should smile at one's enemy. It'll confuse them." Try it, and not with some cocky sarcastic smile. Maybe you'll find that if you smile at them, they aren't so terrible an enemy after all. And maybe, just maybe, they'll return that smile. Come on, be a good sport!

Well Shoppers, despite the warmer weather, market prices are still pretty well leveled off with the exception of a few "red-hot" specials this week.

With the egg market holding steady in the high 80's and 90's for a big share of the winter, this week sees an extra special of large eggs for 59c per dozen — so here is a chance to stock up for those good old-fashioned "ham-n-eggs" breakfasts. (In order to finish out this breakfast take advantage of the smoked picnic pork roast on sale for 59c per lb. also.)

In the produce line, California oranges are now available in several types and sizes and 3 lb. bags of onions are still holding steady at 29c.

And, for that sweet tooth when you want a good nourishing dessert, 1/2 gallons of ice cream are on special this week for 79c — so here is another chance to "stock up and save!"

Raelene Denise Lehman Valentine Bride

Miss Raelene Denise Lehman chose an intimate family candlelight wedding ceremony at her parents' home, for her marriage to Ronald W. Salmonson at 7:30 p. m., Friday, February 14, 1975.

A close circle of family and friends heard the vows exchanged by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lehman of Andover, N. Y., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Salmonson of Wellsville, N. Y. The Rev. Floyd Aldrich, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Andover, N. Y., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, escorted down the stairs by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white slipper satin and french lace with attached bolero jacket and long sleeves. The waistline was detailed with a flat bow and an unpressed pleat down the front. She wore a headpiece of cultured pearls with a shoulder-length bouffant nylon tulle veil with appliques of matching lace adorning the edge, and carried one long stemmed red rose. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Mrs. Reba Lehman was Matron-of-Honor for her sister-in-law. She chose a gray two-piece floor-length suit, complimented with a white blouse and carried a single red rose.

Kenneth Lehman, brother of the bride was best man.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bridal table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink hearts and topped with two cupids, and was made by Mrs. Sylvia Lehman of Wellsville, cousin of the bride.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Andover Central School and ROCES of Belmont, N. Y. The bridegroom graduated from Wellsville High School, served four years in the Navy and is employed at the First Trust Union Bank of Wellsville, N. Y.

The couple will make their home on Water Street in Andover, N. Y.
