

News That's Print To Fit

Hello again! Well last week we had just finished remarking about the beautiful weather we had been enjoying when BANG! That cold front moved in and Thursday morning the mercury dipped down to 10 above and we saw our first trace of snow. However, it warmed up in the 60's the first part of this week again — and we have been promised warm weather thru Saturday.

The Andover Soccer Team has had their best year in many moons and ended up the regular season without a loss. In fact, they weren't even scored on in any of their regular League games or in winning the Allegany County Championship. However, last Saturday in their Quarter-Final Sectional game played in Belmont against Belfast, they sure gave the large Andover crowd in attendance something to worry about.

The game was played under adverse conditions with about a 25 mile per hour wind and intermittent rain. And, for some reason, some of the Andover players didn't seem to be quite as sharp as usual with the Belfast team taking advantage and getting an early score. But, what really had the fans worried was that this 1-0 score held up until late in the fourth period. Then "Ricky" Cahill scored a good clean goal to tie it up. Then came the anticlimax when a Belfast player jumped up to gain control of an Andover pass down near the Belfast goal — and the ball bounced off his head into the Belfast goal past the outstretched goalie. Then, with only around two minutes to play, Andover was able to control the ball winning the game 2-1.

Tuesday afternoon, Andover played Cohocton from Steuben County at Alfred-Almond in the Semi-Finals and settled down to a business-like game, scoring 2 goals early in the play. However, after changing goals at the end of a period, Cohocton came roaring back to score twice — and the tie went on into the fourth period. Fortunately, Andover had the wind advantage in the final period and after nearly scoring several times — missing the goal by inches each time — finally punched one by the Cohocton goalie with only three or four minutes left to play and were able to control the ball to score a 3-2 win.

This coming Saturday the Andover team plays Whitesville in the finals, a team that they have beaten previously, and, if they don't get too over-confident, should be able to wrap up "all the marbles".

However, no matter what the final outcome is, the local Team sure deserves a great deal of credit for their wonderful "team play" as well as game record.

VETERANS DAY

Veterans Day, 1975 is an occasion to salute all the men and women, from 1775 to the present, whose services in uniform have been vital to our country's growth and more than once to its very survival.

The dedication of this day to all veterans properly focuses the Nation's attention. The truth is that, in the final analysis, it is not solely massive armies, navies, and air forces or industrial might that wins wars. Rather, victories are won by men — lonely individuals whose skills, courage, determination, and sacrifices, establish the measure of our Nation's strength.

While we can't recall it; there probably wasn't a moment of national relief and jubilation like that experienced by America on the eleventh hour of the eleventh month in 1918 — the World War I Armistice Day which since World War II has been changed to Veterans Day and is observed as a National Holiday.

After World War I, this sacred moment was observed throughout our schools, public offices and across our nation by moments of silence.

It had been the "war to end all wars" — at least to Veterans and Americans. Great sacrifices had been made — but perpetual peace had been at last achieved! Yet this lasted just a little over 20 years.

This coming Tuesday, November 11th, we honor the men who died in another great World Conflict, World War II, in addition to those who have paid the supreme sacrifice in Korea, Vietnam and other so-called Police Actions along the Communist Frontiers.

The presence of our American Soldiers at these jumping off places of Civilization are a living reminder that despite all the talk of peace — a strong American force is an absolute necessity to preserve our American ideals and Ways of Life and Liberty.

This Veterans Day should remind us as a nation that we have been subjected to periods of trial, peril, and despair — and we have endured. Let's give even greater meaning to this holiday to honor those who have answered our country's call to meet the threat of armed aggression. Let's observe Veterans Day 1975 with a reaffirmation of our pride in America and our unified support of her democratic process.

"Teddy" Roosevelt is quoted as having once said: "Speak Softly — But carry a Big Stick". This bit of blunt advice has been ignored many times since its utterance by we "Easy Going Americans" and has undoubtedly cost us billions of dollars as well as the lives of many good citizens and soldiers.

We, as Good Americans, should do our utmost to see that "Our Big Stick" is in constant readiness so that the lives of all those brave men who died to preserve our freedom, will not have been in vain!
