Editorial

Many students sit in study hall wondering why they have to be there. "Can't they give us a break?" Some students say, "There's never anything to do." Is another remark that is heard. "They won't let you sleep." How cruel can teachers be! So, what's there to do? I have the solution to that.

A study hall is given to us for the sole purpose of studying. The first part of the word should give you that idea. It's a good time to catch up on old school work or your homework. You might even work ahead! If you have nothing to do, you could always write a letter that you have been putting off just because you didn't have the time to write it, or read a book or magazine. If you'll just think you'd find out that there is a lot to do in study hall.

So, the next time you feel bored in study hall, take these hints and you won't be. You'll also be getting work done that you'd normally have to do after school.
