

"Your Word Is Your Bond"

An Editorial

The selection of James Emery as Minority Leader of the New York State Assembly drew the predictable praise from Upstate Republicans and The Andover News adds its congratulations to Emery in his surprising victory.

More important than the words of praise from his allies are the words from the opposition party.

The News decided to check this out and we spoke with Andover native David Eno, who serves as Press Secretary to Lieutenant Governor Mary Anne Kruppsak. He said: "There is, unfortunately, a disappearing breed around the Capitol: Those who believe your word is your bond. Jim Emery has distinguished himself as one of those exceptional people. He has a reputation as being a decent, credible, accountable member of the Assembly. Upstate New York and Allegany County in particular, are the clear winners in Tuesday's Assembly Republican balloting."

It sounds like Emery has some friends across the aisle.

Andover Central School Newsletter

Open House and classroom visitations culminated the first marking period at the Andover Central School Thursday evening as parents and children visited the school and faculty. Gaily decorated corridors and classrooms displayed Mayflowers, Pilgrims, Indians, turkeys, and many other decorations. Murals of the first Thanksgiving dinner decorated blackboards and children wore Indian headbands to lunch all in preparation for the Thanksgiving holidays.

The Kindergarten classes had their Thanksgiving dinner on Friday. The children prepared the dinner themselves as they learned about the native foods of that first big feast.

The first ten week period provided several field trips for some of the classes. Th second grade classes went to Olean for a visit to the Strohmann Bakery and a tour of McDonald's where they participated in enjoying a "Happy Lunch". Mrs. Francis Horan and Miss Carolyn Ruggiero accompanied their classes on the tours.

The Kindergarten classes took two field trips this fall. In September they visited the Andover Fire Hall to become familiar with the job of a firefighter. At the Fire House the children shared several new experiences as they sat inside the fire truck and observed the controls on the new two way radio. They had a "hands-on" experience with the fire-fighting equipment and tried on the Ambulance Squad's new resuscitating equipment as they learned how it felt to be resuscitated. A special vote of gratitude was given to Jim Haugh for sharing his knowledge of firefighting and emergency service.

In October, both Kindergarten classes accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Marvin Persons and Miss Marjorie Johnston, visited Lain's Cider Mill in Canisteo to learn how apple cider is made. They saw the apple elevator and the grinder that made "apple snow". For some simply tastin-cider was a new experience. To conclude their apple unit, the children made apple pies, cheese fondue and chocolate fondue.
