

Greenwood News

Jeff Ahearn appeared before the Greenwood Central School Board of Education at the regular meeting Monday night, to request privileges for members of the Senior Class. Principal Donald Gooley reported members of the Board voted to grant the privileges on a trial basis.

Marie Sickfeldt, of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES) was named special education teacher to the committee for handicapped students, by the Board. Members voted to allow Doris Bennett to pay electric and gas bills prior to approval by the Board. This will allow the School District to take advantage of the discount for early payment of bills. The gas and electric companies have recently changed payment policy so that full payment must be made after a certain date even if the School Board had not met and approved the bills. Vocational payments to BOCES were discussed and the Board voted to elect plan B of several choices offered.
